Interconnect

It's Time to Talk to Each Other

Growing businesses must now, more than ever, adapt to fast moving and ever changing business requirements to maintain their competitive edge. Organizations that run their businesses on SAP Business One may need to communicate in real time to several other systems and platforms to achieve their productivity goals and provide the most value to their employees, customers, and stakeholders.

What if those systems were able to talk to SAP Business One and you could further leverage the value and power of your ERP investment?

With Interconnect, you can integrate, automate and simplify business processes and data sharing between SAP Business One and any custom or third party solution. Whether you have a custom order system or your customers are placing product orders online through a third party Magento store, you can push and pull information in real-time between any system and SAP Business One - using the Interconnect as your connector.

Keep the familiar systems in place that you know work for your business and provide value to your business partners – while integrating with SAP Business One for even greater benefits.

Interconnect connects systems inside or outside your organization with SAP Business One - to exchange data and orchestrate business processes.

Interconnect

A common challenge for any web-based business is getting a system that not only listens, but reaches out and talks to others. With Interconnect, you can initiate the pushing and pulling of data between external systems and SAP Business One – to get everyone talking to each other.

Interconnect offers:

- Seamless integration of business processes
- Unparalleled connectivity with any system or solution
- Complete synchronization of data between SAP Business One and your solution
- A single view of data
- Reduced costs and errors with multiple systems and applications
- Increased buy-in from employees and stakeholders for your SAP Business One system
